COMMISSIONER APPOINTED

DAVID H. FINK OF OXFORD TWP. NAMED BY COURT.

To Fill the Vacancy Caused by the Death of County Commissioner John C. Group.

On last Wednesday afternoon President Judge S. McC. Swope and Associate Judges Geo. H. Trostle and C. D. Smith held the hearing in the matter of an appointment of a County Commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of County Commissioner J. C. Group.

The petition of County Commissioners Alex H. Rebert and John F. Bushey, Clerk Jos. M. Bushman and Attorney S. S. Neely was presented by the latter, in which the name of David H. Fink was suggested for the appointment. This petition was supplemented by a petition signed by 191 citizens of the county, from Oxford township, New Oxford and Gettysburg recommending the appointment of Mr. Fink and certifying to his eminent fitness for the position. W. C. Sneely, Esq. presented the application of about 25 citizens suggesting the name of Philip Group of Huntington township for the position and also a second application which had been sent him suggesting the nameof Michael Rebert of East Berlin.

After conference of the judges, Pres. Judge Swope said that several other names had been suggested tothe court by letters and that every name mentioned by petition and letter were of the very best citizens of the county, who could and would creditably fill the position.

Judge Swope stated that after he learned of the death of Commissioner Group he had spoken to a representative of the present board, saying that if the board could agree to name one to succeed Mr. Group they should do so. That it was his desire to name a successor whom the present board would desire, as one they knew who would act amicably along the lines of the work of the present board. The Court said this viewwas taken by reason of the act of 1874 which provided that the surviving commissioners and Court should unite in making the appointmentand though that Act was repealed by the Constitution of 1874 yet the wisdom of the old Act was apparent, that the new appointment should be one entirely harmonious to the existing board. In view of the suggestion of the Court to the board of commissioners and their action on same by the recommendation of Mr. Fink, and the excellent character of Mr. Fink, attested by the long list of signers of his neighbors, the Court said the Judges would appoint David H. Fink to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Group.

The board as filled by the appointment met in session immediately afterwards and organized by electing as President Alex H. Rebert and John F. Busbey as Secretary.

The robbers wore dark working shirts and blue ovveralls and had their faces concealed behind handkerchiefs. When the machine halted the highwaymen demanded allmoney and valuables in the possession of the four automobilists. A moments hesitation to yield to the request prompted the villains to draw their revolvers on their victims. The air was filled with the noise and smoke from the discharges of fire arms Orders were given for the men to step out of the automobile and hold up their hands while their pockets were searched. All alighted but one and he was pulled out of the conveyance. From the pockets of Long and one of his companions $25 were taken, 25 cts. from a third and the fourth ran away. DEATH OF LEADING CITIZEN

One of the County's Most Progressive Business Men Devoted to Its Development.

William Alexander Himes, one of the most influential citizens of New Oxford and among the most enterprising and progressive business men in Adams county died on last Thursday at Asbury Park, N. J., of heart disease aged 55 years.

Mr. Himes had been through a very severe illness about a year ago. He seemed to be possessed of a restless energy that did not know how to take the rest that had been prescribed. Recently he had been feeling better than usual and left on Friday Aug. 23 with his wife and an aunt to spend some time at Asbury Park. His children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Manley of York, Misses Amelia and Helen and Wm. Himes started about the same time on an extended auto trip and joined Mr. and Mrs. Himes at Asbury Park last Wednesday to be present there during carnival week.

Mr. Himes had been chosen as one of the judges of the baby parade and in company with his son William, daughter Amelia and Capt. O'Brian, Supreme Judge of the Baby Parade, had almost reached the grand stand when he gave a sudden exclamation of surprise and sank back into the arms of his son, who was walking behind him with Capt. O'Brian. Death seemed to be instantaneous.

Mr. Himes was a son of the late Wm. D. Himes, was born and resided his entire life in New Oxford. He attended the schools of his home town and afterwards graduated from Dickinson College. He seemed happiest when deepest in the many cares of his business life. He possessed an exceptional faculty for business and a sound judgment so as to be widely sought after in many projects. He had been selected to be trusted with the settlement of the large Eichelberger estates He was managing a mill and several farms. He was a Director of the York Trust Company, going several times a week to York. He was President of the Farmers and Merchants' Bank of New Oxford, President of the Berlin Branch Railroad, and also of the Emmitsburg Railroad. He was a Director of the Hanover and McSherrystown Street Railway. He was interested in the Gettysburg Gas Co., in fact any enterprises that appealed to his business judgment he was always ready to back with means, time and brain.

He had his heart set upon the extension of the McSherrystown Railroad first to Littlestown and later to New Oxford and on to Gettysburg, and the break in his health of a year ago is one of the things that contributed to prevent the accomplishment of either, and that restless, strenuous energy of his would have never been satisfied until this trolley to New Oxford and Gettysburg would have been built. In all that he did it was with a look ahead into the future for what was best for his town and county.

He was a prominent Adams county Republican and was the choice of his county for the Congressional nomination a few years ago. He served his town as School Director and Councilman. He thoroughly enjoyed the game of politics for its excitement and friendships. He was a Past Master of Hebron Lodge No. 465 F. and A. M. of New Oxford.

Mr. Himes married Miss Kate Gitt, daughter of D. F. Gitt of New Oxford, who survives with three daughters and one son, Mrs. Robert Manley of York, Misses Amelia and Helen Himes and William Himes at home. Two brothers and one sister survive, Prof. Charles Himes of Dickinson College, Carlisle, H. O. Himes and Mrs. Helen Keith of Gettysburg.

The influence of the life of Mr. Himes was far reaching in the development of his county, an example along the most advanced and progressive lines, yet conservative and safe and the loss to the county in his death in the fullness of mature manhood is to be deeply deplored.

The body was brought to his home in New Oxford on last Friday evening. The funeral took place from his residence in New Oxford on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. There was a large attendance of associates, representing the York Trust Co., York and Gettysburg Turnpike Co., Emmitsburg R. R., Gettysburg Gas Co. and other business enterprises with which he was connected, besides personal friends. The interment was private but hundreds visited the cemetery to view the floral tributes sent by the Emmitsburg R. R. The New Oxford Bank, the directors of which attended in a body, Hebron Masonic Lodge, and a quantity of others from his many friends.

Charles Williams died at his home on Steinwehr avenue on last Friday afternoon from uraemia aged 37 years, 4 months and a few days. Mr. Williams had been ailing for sometime and in a way that was very strange. He would be overcome with stupor and loose consciousness. At other times he would make assertions which he said he could not refrain from making, delirious as it were, though on his feet and at work. For ten years he has been employed at the W. M. R. R. freight depot, highly regarded and esteemed as most trustworthy. A month or two ago he was compelled to relinquish his work and was confined to his bed, often beingin an unconscious condition and his condition became the anxious concern of his family, relatives and many friends. An autopsy was made establishing death as due to uraemia. The funeral was held on Sunday, with interment in Evergreen cemetery. He was a member of the Reformed church. He leaves a wife, who was a Miss Sefton and one son, Joseph. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Williams, two brothers and six sisters, B. D. and Wm. Williams, Mrs. Edward Reiling, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Wm. Eden, Misses Ada, Alice and Nellie Williams. A step brother and step sister survive. In 1888 he was ministerial delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Church in New York. Soon afterward he established the Maclay College of Theology at San Fernando, becoming dean of the institution.

He was twice married. In 1850 he married, at Hongkong, Henrietta Caroline Sperry. For years she was associated with him in his missionary work. His second wife was Sarah A. Barr, whom he married in San Francisco in 1882.

He was the author of many books on religious topics, chief among which was his "Life Among the Chinese."

She was about 10 years of age and was buried at Mummerts' meeting house by the side of the elder sister who passed away several days previously from same disease. Besides the parents there survive five brothers, the two smallest being sick with same disease. Two of the older boys have been sleeping in the barn for past three weeks so as to be away from the contagion.

Woods Jr., with interment in the Evergreen Cemetery. She leaves besides her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Wm. E. Ross of York, Mrs. E. Fritsch of Philadelphia and Miss Jennie at home. One brother survives E. C. Reid of Freedom township.

He was born near Hampton, this county, and received his early education in public schools of the county. He later attended the York Academy. Upon the breaking out of the Civil War, he enlisted as a private and served to the end of the war. He then entered the medical department of University of Pennsylvania, graduating with the degree of M. D. and for eleven years practiced medicine at Arendtsville, this county. He abandoned this profession to become a Methodist minister and labored in Kansas from 1877 to 1889, when he came east, devoting himself to church work in and around New York City. He was a brilliant speaker and an original thinker and his work was of great value to his church. He won the degree of Ph. D., from the University of the City of New York. He retired from the ministry last April by advice of physicians and located in beautiful town of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., where he died. He leaves a wife and four children, Virgil C. Gates, Moody B. Gates, Mrs. Edwin A. Ames, of New York, and Mrs. Walter E. Ensign, of Providence, R. I.

He learned cigar making, working at McSherrystown, Edgegrove and Hanover. About two years ago he became foreman of the Keystone Cheroot Co., but was compelled to resign same recently on account of failing health. He was also compelled to give up a small factory he started in McSherrystown and for fourteen weeks he lingered, battling with the white plague. He was an upright young business man and highly respected. He was a member of Hanover Council, Knights of Columbus, Sacred Heart Beneficial Society of Conowago, Holy Trinity Beneficial Society, Cigarmakers Union No. 316 and the Catholic Benevolent Legion of McSherrystown. INTERIOR OF PEOPLES DRUG STORE.

THE PEOPLES DRUG STORE

IS VASTLY IMPROVED BY ITS PROPRIETOR C. WM. BEALES

Fitted up to Give Public Every Possible Comfort and Convenience —A Very Attractive Store.

The above picture will give some idea of the completeness and taste with which the Peoples Drug Store has been enlarged and improved by its proprietor C. Wm. Beales.

In the two years Mr. Beales has been the proprietor of this store he has shown himself to be among the aggressive progressive business men of the town. He believes in the up-to-date method of spending money to get business, spending in order to make his store more attractive to the public patronizing him, spending in order to give the public more comforts, conveniences and pleasure in coming to his store, showing the public his appreciation of the patronage that has been given him.

With these ideas Mr. Beales has for some time desired a larger room and at his own expense has remodeled and enlarged his store room on Baltimore street. The partition between the front store room and ware-house room in the rear was removed, making the long room, which Mr. Beales believes to be longest main store room in the county, being 105 feet long. Several rooms in that portion of the Star and Sentinel building formerly occupied by the Minnigh store has been rented for storing purposes with a door opening to same from the rear part of the store room.

This large main store room Mr. Beales has fitted with cases to correspond with the cases in front portion and has had the ceilings and walls finished in same style so that one can not tell where the old room ends and new one begins, being a harmonious complete room. The floor has been covered with linoleum and the effect is most pleasing and attractive.

Mr. Beales has added to the furnishing six tasty mission tables and sets of chairs, so as to accommodate his constantly growing soda water patronage and at the same time give the necessary room for the drug store. He has placed in the store several handsome show cases. The improvements have cost him about one thousand dollars.

Those well acquainted with the drug trade and drug stores of the state have told Mr. Beales that a finer and more complete drug store can not be found in the state anywhere west of Philadelphia or east of Pittsburg and this fact is something for the town to sit up and take note of. A splendid town spirit to cultivate is to be at the head of the procession.

THE JEWISH NEW YEAR

BEGINS ON MONDAY OF NEXT WEEK, SEPTEMBER 9TH.

Special Features are the Blowing of Rams Horns and Religious Services.

Preparations are being made in all Jewish synagogues for the observance of the New Year and the Day of Atonement. According to the Jewish calendar the New Year begins September 9 and the Day of Atonement September 18.

These days and the intervening period are considered the most sacred time of the year by the Jews. Those who have been indifferent to their religious duties, having neglected to attend divine worship, will surely be found in the synagogues during the observance of these holidays. The New Year, according to tradition, is the day God is supposed to have created the world, and it has been 5,668 years since then, according to the Jewish calendar.

By orthodox Jews the Day of Atonement is known as the "Fearful Day." They spend it in fasting, praying and doing penance. In the reformed synagogues the New Year and the Day of Atonement are celebrated by special musical exercises and special sermons. A special feature of the New Year's celebration is the blowing of the ram's horn, known in Hebrew as the Shofar.

On Atonement Day services will be held continuously in all synagogues. In fact, the celebration of the Day of Atonement begins the day before, in order to prepare the mind and body to forget the material things of life and to direct them to the spiritual.

Between New Year and the Day of Atonement it is customary to visit the graves of departed relatives and to pray for the repose of their souls. Special prayer services at the cemeteries connected with the synagogues will be held Sunday, September 15.

In the Jewish calendar there are two "New Years." The first, known as the Passover, comes in March, and is the beginning of the religious year. From this date all religious holidays are reckoned. The New Year of September 9 marks the beginning of the civil year.

The New Year is known in Hebrew as the Rosh Hashanah, and is the first day of the month of Tishri. The Day of Atonement is called the Yom Kippur, or Yom Hakkipurim, and is the tenth day of Tishri.

The City of Picturesque Draft.

George Kennan, who has been so long associated in the public mind with his famous Russian investigations, seems to find conditions in his own country fully as interesting as those of the Siberian prisons. In the September "McClure's" he describes the fight for reform in San Francisco which lately culminated in the dramatic conviction of Mayor Schmitz. The article, which is written with all of Mr. Kennan's distinction of style and directness of statement, is a remarkable story of municipal rottenness. It is perhaps in the nature of San Francisco to be picturesque, both in her virtues and in her departures from virtue: and certainly there is something picturesque in Mr. Kennan's account of the looting that went on under the protection of a corrupt police force after the San Francisco earthquake, when the thieves paid a certain sum every month for a specified area, and then went with men and wagons and dug out what loot they could find.

Mr. Kennan's story of the ring, of unheard of conditions which it organized, and of the fight "by three determined men against Ruef, the Mayor, the supervisors, the municipal boards, the sheriffs, the police, and some of the most wealthy and powerful corporations on the Pacific coast," is one of thrilling interest to every American.

The Crusade Against War.

Had you wished to know the full sweep and trend of the pacific movement, you had gone, as I did, among the unofficial delegates, at the Hague conference. They were many. Mr. W. T. Stead presided over a club in the Princessengracht. The Baroness von Suttner, who wrote that epoch-making book, "Lay Down Your Arms!" had her pacific circle. The peace associations were represented by men and women from every land. Among them you met neither irony nor disillusion. As you listened to them you realized that the Great Ideal has made its way into the remotest parts of the earth, that it has become part of the intellectual life of mankind. The most potent delegates were those unaccredited members of the Peace Leagues and Associations, who presented the hopes of far-off Java, of far-off Kansas, of Norway, of England. They were not worrying about Darwinian laws of equilibrium. It may be that they are not practical. But they are preaching a crusade—in all languages—against war. They are stripping it of its glory; they are demonstrating its absurdity in an age when men know one another—and may freely discuss their differences; and they are familiarizing the peoples and above all the governments with the theory of peace. There was something very charming about these little gatherings—with their enthusiasms and lawless idealism. You see, they discussed only how peace might be made permanent and universal; not upon them was laid the diplomatic duty of seeing how peace might be made—profitable.—Vance Thompson, in September Everybody's.

A Most Important Discovery.

The excavation in the Valley of the Tombs of the kings at Thebes, which for the last few years have been financed and directed by Mr. Theodore M. Davis, of Newport, R. I., on behalf of the Egyptian government, have led to the discovery on January 9, 1907, of the tomb of Queen Thiy, the wife of Amenhotep III, and mother of the "Heretic King" Akhnaton. It will be remembered that in 1905 the discovery of the tomb of Yuaa and Thuaa, the father and mother of Queen Thiy, rewarded Mr. Davis's labors: and it has thus been a matter of particular satisfaction both to Mr. Davis and to the government that the same excavations should now have brought to light the tomb of the great queen. Everyone who has studied ancient Egyptian history will readily admit that the reigns of Queen Thiy, her husband, Amenhotep III., and her son, Akhnaton, form one of the most absorbingly interesting periods of human history in early days. Akhnaton has aptly been called the first individual in history; that is to say, the first person into the workings of whose mind one may now look; and it is generally admitted that his character was formed under the influence of his mother, Queen Thiy. The finding of the tomb of this great queen may therefore be said to be the most important discovery as yet made in these excavations.—From Arthur E. P. Weigall's "A New Discovery in Egypt" in the September Century.

The Splendor of Siena.

The modern spirit has spoiled Rome, and is daily destroying there. It is more slowly, but not less certainly, destroying Venice, with a literal, calculated destruction. Florence has let in the English, who board there, and a new spirit, not destructive, reverent of past things but superficial with new civilization, has mingled the Renaissance with the commonplace of the modern world. But Siena is content to remain itself, neither ambitious nor dejected; busying itself with its old industries the smell of the tanneries, as in the days of St. Catherine, never out of its streets), keeping its beautiful old things quietly, not trying to make new things like them: content with the old limits, and with all old things as they were.

And the splendor and dignity of its past still live nobly in all the walls of Siena. Its history is written there in stone and with a lasting beauty, on the walls of all its palaces.—From "Siena," by Arthur Symons in the September Scribner.

For The School Children.

The September number of the "New Idea Woman's Magazine" contains several articles which will be of great practical help to those who have to provide and care for the needs of school children. Our regular dress article is devoted to a discussion of the necessities which the wardrobe of a girl going away to school or college should contain. Read a "College Girl's Outfit" before sending a young member of your family away for a year's absence. Those to whom the packing of the school luncheon basket is a daily bugbear will find much valuable information in an article on this subject by Elizabeth W. Morrison. "The Children's Study Room at Home" contains directions to provide a suitable place for the growing child to study. The carelessness prevalent in American homes in this respect shows that it is not realized sufficiently that, if children have only a corner which they can call their own, their pride in it often becomes a strong incentive to good work. Many suggestions for school clothes for both boys and girls are found among the September patterns.

Birthday Surprise Party.

The evening was spent delightfully in playing various games on the lawn. At a reasonable hour all were invited to partake of refreshments which were served in abundance. Those present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. John W. Funt, Howard Funt and wife, John Roth and wife, Rufus Lawver and wife, Charles Myers and wife, George Orner and wife, Hanson Taylor and wife, Frank Kime and wife, Chas. Shank and wife, Willis Pitzer and wife, Herman Myers and wife, Ira Deardorff and wife, David Shank and wife, Misses Lizzie Toot, Mary Lee, Mamie Haverstick, Mary J. A GUEST.

SPEEDING UP THE BEES.

One Keeper Who Has Brought Modern Methods to Bear.

"Ye kin speed up a bee the same as a man," said the graybeard, chuckling cruelly. "Why, I git twicet as much agin out o' them thar 60 hives o' mine as I would if I didn't speed 'em.

"One way to speed yer bee is to bring the flowers close to the hives. My flowers, ye see, surrounds th' hives, crowds 'em in. Sech a sight gives the bee a fever. Before sech plenty he can't work hard enough. Nothin' must be lost, an' he gathers the honey, by gosh, till he fair drops. I'm speedin' him unbeknownst.

"The young bee likes to stay home an' make comb instead o' goin' out after the honey. Well, I speed the young bee by puttin' artificial comb in the hives. That leaves him nothin' to do—an' he'll never loaf—but go out honey-gatherin', an so, with a sigh, out he goes.

"Another way to speed yer bee is to keep the combs always nearly empty. That worries him. He sees winter comin' on, an' doubles his efrots to prepare for it.

"I've heerd o' speedin' a bee by keepin' electric lights burnin' about the hive, so that the little critter would think it was still daylight, an' would work on 20 or 21 hours a day instead o' the usual 17. Electric speedin', though, I don't believe in. It damages the health of the bee. It burns the candle at both ends."

KITTENS WITH GREEN HAIR.

Baltimore Woman Proud Owner of a Litter of Freaks.

It may all sound like a fairy tale or an echo of the nature faker discussions, but the fact is that Mrs. Rachel Carter, of 1834 McHenry street, Baltimore, is the proud possessor of five eight-day-old green kittens, not yellow, nor brown, nor tortoise shell—these kittens are really green, of such a shade as the inside of a half-ripe cantaloupe or the plumage of many canary birds when, instead of yellow, their coats take on a delicate tint of green.

That the cats are purely a freak of nature seems certain, as the mother of the litter of five kittens is coal black, and there is nothing apparently in the environment to account scientifically for the variation from type.

The kittens have black hair on their backs, extending down the sides, while underneath the green hair begins to extend over the whole under surface, exactly as many animals possess white hair shading from a coat of black.—Detroit Free Press.

The Woman of the Period.

Hurry and excitement are the dominant features that characterize the woman of the period.

She rarely has time for anything—little duties are forgotten, little brothers and sisters overlooked, while her family is worried to death by her nervous, irritable temper.

She cannot take life quietly, but rushes up and down stairs as if pursued by a legion of horrors, and knocks at the door and pulls at the bell with force enough to arouse the dead.

Everything belonging to her is chaotic, and her memory is so treacherous that her friends have learned by experience never to depend upon it.

It is the fever of unrest, in the train of which is the demon of discontent that has entered into many homes, rendering it a prison to the woman of the period.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Room for All the World.

In the state of Texas you could place each man, woman and child 70 feet apart, giving each 4,900 square feet of land—room sufficient for house, cattle and vegetable garden.

Duty of Hopefulness.

The politician, like the doctor, should be obliged to take an oath never to give up hope till the last minute.—St. Petersburg Retch.

Short Lived Coffee Blossoms.

Coffee plantations in bloom are snow white, and exhale a delicious odor, but the blossoms die in a day.

Primogeniture.

Too many of the people who are trying to establish the brotherhood of man want to be the older brother.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
To find relief and cure?
No reason why any reader
Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Front St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble, but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and lack of circulation. Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted figures. The kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular, and I was tortured with thirst and always bloated. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bloating subsided until I weighed 100 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Jackson will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

Catalpa Speciosa Treee.

This will be the future timber of this country. The railroads have invested millions of dollars in this timber for cross ties and telegraph poles for the future. This timber is the native forest tree of the lower Wabash Valley. In 6 years this timber will grow large enough for posts and rails, which will last, exposed to all kinds of weather, from 85 to 90 years. Split shingles on houses in its native country last over 100 years. These trees while growing, are clad in myriad robes of beautiful foliage of flowers. Every new home in the county should have a few of these trees in the yard as they are fast growers. We will have a few thousand of these valuable trees which can be transplanted from our gardens in September and October, 1907. We secured a few seeds at a big expense last winter. We will sell the trees at $3 per 100, less than a 100, 5 cts. each. We will have at the same time 80,000 fine large Ginseng Plants which we will sell at 50 cents per 100. The above in city nurseries are quoted at $10 per 100. Every person should assist in introducing this long lasting timber in this county. Call at our gardens, or address

CATARRH

HAY FEVER

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients — Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or billiousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend Won Votes by Her Cooking.

Here is a story of the electioneering methods of one woman that men will not be likely to copy. She wanted to be superintendent of the county schools and went to a lot of harvest hands to ask for their votes. She told them she would make a good official, but they preferred to know how well she could cook and offered the votes in exchange for a good meal. They got it and she got the votes.

The Even Tenor of His Way.

A man who served as a hackman in Hempstead, Long island, for over 50 years, died yesterday. Some days ago, as he sat dozing on his seat in front of the railroad depot, a commuter said to him: "You must have seen some queer things, Luke, in your half century of going to and fro?" "Dunno as I have," was the slow answer. "Just hacked."—Pittsburg Gazette.

Rhode Island a Sardine Box.

Rhode Island, which has 400 persons to the square mile, is the most densely populated state in the union. The figures are from a recent bulletin from the census bureau. There are only seven other states with more than a hundred to the square mile. Rhode Island leads not only in density of population, but in increase in density.

Woman Ruled American Colony.

The only woman who ever ruled for an American colony was Lady Carteret. Lord Carteret married for his second wife a New York widow, Mrs. William Lawrence. She was a woman of strong character, and was appointed regent during his absence from the colony. Many documents are extant signed by her as regent.

The very biggest mistake that married persons make, philosophizes the editor of the Ladies' World, is to think that their friends will help them in their troubles with each other. The man or woman who goes away from home for sympathy finds sorrow and brings back regret.

First Mint Julep.

Common mint is in Greece and Italy so old that Ovid derived its name from Menthe, a young Greek woman who, by the enmity of a harum-scarum goddess, was converted into the plant whose oil is now an essential part of the stock of the druggist, the candy-maker and the cafe impresario.

Travel in Palestine.

In the Bible country, along the tortuous, narrow highways of Palestine, it is no rare sight to see native women riding muleback, and often a double saddle is fixed that one woman can ride on each side of the long-suffering animal.

An Old Offender.

A man has won $750 in a suit against a street car company for having his feelings hurt by the insulting language of the conductor. Now, let somebody make a case against the hotel clerk.

Women Shun Dentistry.

Dentistry does not seem to appeal to women. It is one of the professions which is not threatened by a feminine invasion. There are very few women hovering around the dental colleges.

The Camera Fiend's Wanderlust.

As the sun day by day ascends the heavens and the actinic value of his light increases, rhapsodizes the editor of the American Amateur Photographer, there seizes us once more the fervor of the enthusiast. From the high shelf down comes the camera, the plate holders are loaded, and we tramp across the green fields looking for pictures—or pretending to. For half the cause of our wandering has naught to do with the black box we carry with us. The primitive instinct for change, the ancestral wanderlust, it is, that has seized us and driven us forth to nature.

Jewish Self-Government After Eighteen Centuries.

When in March, four years ago, the Governor of New Jersey signed the charter creating the borough of Woodbine, it is doubtful if he realized that the thing he did was historic, even epoch-making. That Woodbine was interesting he must have known, for farming settlements of Russian Jews do not plentifully dot the landscape anywhere: but Woodbine is more than merely uncommon. The Governor who signed that charter was giving Jews their first chance at civic self-government since Titus, more than eighteen centuries ago, left not one stone upon another in the Holy City and the long tragedy of Jewish exile began.

Woodbine was founded in 1891 by the trustees of the Baron de Hirsch Fund in connection with a committee of immigrants. Several little Jewish communities were already prospering in southern New Jersey, or they were at least holding their own, so these seventy-five Russian immigrants were minded to follow suit. They had 5 300 acres of land covered with scrub-oak and stunted pine and a great deal of patient endurance. They had also a good superintendent, Prof. H. L. Sabsovich, whose insight into men and things and whose unfailing enthusiasm were to help them in many a hard place. Thus equipped, they started in.—From "The First Self-Governing Jewish Community Since the Fall of Jerusalem," by David Blaustein, in September Circle.

How City Children Play.

Among a number of interesting articles in the September Appletons Magazine, George Calvert writes of "How Children Play in New York," saying: Here is a cluster of youngsters in tatters and more or less dirt, leap frogging it over the hydrant at the corner and there their sisters scantily of gown and bare of leg are playing ... [illegible] ... Many maternal jerks and scoldings.

On the pavement imaginary fire engines and trucks dash to imaginary fires with clang of gong and shrill whistles of warning accurately copied from the real affairs; in the gutters mud pies are made by busy housekeepers wrapped up in the gentle craft, while in the middle of the street the whole art and mystery of the national game, including the "rooting" is being displayed under the very hoofs of the horses. Further along a bunch of three-year-olds are circling gravely about a kneeling couple, playing the old, old game of "kiss in the ring" or "London bridge." Every play that was ever played and many invented for the occasion may be found in the streets of New York, dancing plays, marching plays, bits of the kindergarten, vestiges of mystery plays dating back to the foundation of the pyramids or imitations of the daily grown-up life that goes on all about.

Birthday Surprise Party.

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Samuel Schwartz on the evening of Aug. 22d, in honor of his son Allen's birthday anniversary. The evening was spent in playing games, social conversation and vocal and instrumental music. At a reasonable hour all were invited to the dining room where the table was laden with many delicacies of the season. After nearly sixty people had partaken thereof they all said good night and returned to their homes very much delighted with the pleasant evening spent with Allen. Those present were as follows: Samuel Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. David Schwartz, Mrs. John Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rudisill, Mr. and Mrs. John Funt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Beard Sharetts, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Fox, Misses Maud Collins, Ethel Wolford, Grace Benner, Martha Rudisill, Bess Collins, Sarah Schwartz, Laura Wolford, Edna Wherley, Clara Appler, Cora Staley, Effie Schwartz, Mabel Miller, Melinda Farmer, Stella Fiscel, Fannie and Alice Schwartz, Carrie Benner, Elsie Appler, Pauline Rudisill, Minnie Jeffcoat, Ernestine Sharetts, Catharine Funt, Margaret Schwartz, Mildred Funt, Messrs. Clarence Wolf, Wm. Haverstick, Howard Schwartz, Geo. Patterson, Wm. Wolf, Claud King, Joel Schwartz, Harry Wolf, Ray Appler, Steward Rudisill, Allen Schwartz, Chas. Miller, Harry Gettier, Hugh Fiscel, Benton Rudisill, John Fox, Wilbur Schwartz, Clare Rudisill, Willis Schwartz and Merle Rudisill.

TEACHERS SUMMER MEETING

Instructive Addresses Spelling Bee --And Work Outlined.

The seventh annual summer meeting of the teachers of Adams County was held last Thursday in Brua Chapel. There were two sessions, morning and afternoon, 141 teachers registered and the meetings proved to be highly beneficial to the teachers about to begin the school year.

Supt. F. E. Downes of Harrisburg and Prof. W. M. Rife of the Shippensburg State Normal School made addresses at both sessions. In the morning Prof. Rife spoke on the teacher and the requirements to make a successful teacher. The teacher should first be a student and scholar, second a man of sympathy, third a man of good character and fourth a man of good judgment. Supt. Downes spoke in the morning on "Moral Instruction in the Schools.

Prof. Rife in the afternoon discussed the "Country School" pointing out the many advantages surrounding it. Supt. Downes considered "The School" in a general way. The addresses were highly instructive and suggestive.

An interesting spelling contest took place in the afternoon. The contest was a written one and a majority of the teachers present participated. Two prizes had been offered, for the best paper a copy of Websters' International Dictionary in sheep binding and next best copy of Websters Academic Dictionary.

The pictures and medals of Thaddeus Stevens donated by the Stevens Memorial Association to the schools contributing $5 and over were handed over to those entitled to same, pictures going to Biglerville Grammar, Boyds, Fairplay and Belmont, Cumberland township, Pine Run, Hamilton township, Glenwood Highland township, Two Taverns Mt. Joy township and Good Intent Straban township. The medal was delivered to Glenwood school Highland township.

Blanks were furnished the teachers on which to make out report of first month's work with instructions to mail the same to the Supt. together with their program written on page of legal cap paper, as soon after close of first month's work as convenient and

Supt. H. Milton Roth called attention to the fact that the adopted course of study will be used as heretofore. Teachers were urged to present all subjects to the scholars well and thoroughly, laying special emphasis on subjects of reading, writing and spelling and especially to teach the pupils to spell. They should encourage the pupils to remain in school until they complete the course of study and teachers should not recommend them to take the central and final examinations at end of term until they were well prepared on all subjects.

Supt. Roth spoke of being well pleased with the experiment in conducting rural school commencements and that words of approval had come from many sources and that similar commencements would again be held at close of present term. Teachers were advised not to fail to prepare pupils and give them a thorough drill in such work as will prepare them to appear at these commencements in a creditable manner. Do not put off this work until the end of term but do it by degrees as time will permit.

The new High School law passed by the last Legislature was referred to as requiring both borough and township high schools to outline courses of study of certain standards and provide teachers with certain credentials, in order to participate in the special appropriation which has been made for the benefit of high schools.

$275,000 was appropriated for township high schools and the same amount for borough high schools and Dr Schaeffer has outlined the courses of study for different grades. A high school of first grade must have a four years course and will be entitled annually to a special appropriation of $800, a second grade of 3 years to $600 and third grade of 2 years to $400. At the end of the year it will be necessary for school boards to certify under oath that the requirements as to the grades were carried out.

Supt. Roth closed his remarks with advising every teacher to subscribe for one or more good live educational journals and not to confine their reading to that line alone but in addition subscribe for and read good magazines, best books, current literature and daily and weekly newspapers. Teachers were urged to spend at least one day in visiting schools in the district in which they are teaching or in other districts of county or in boroughs and cities outside the county. It has been proven by experience that a day so spent will result in much good both for teachers and pupils.

The usual plan for conducting district institutes was outlined, committees appointed were urged to arrange for and conduct educational meetings early in the term and if possible each district should hold one meeting before the holidays. Teachers should make an effort to find places of entertainment for the teachers during the sessions of these institutes.

The Old World and Its Ways.

This the title of a new and profusely illustrated book by Col. William Jennings Bryan, recounting his noted journey around the earth and through Europe which was so widely heralded through the American Press.

The book is an illustrated and descriptive record of that journey, which is so memorable in current history. The journey embraced a period of a year and covered practically a period of a year, and covered practically all the nations of the earth.

Col Bryan traveled with camera and pencil and not only described, in brilliant phrase, what he saw, further illustrated his journey by photographs. The photographs constitute a striking pictorial presentation and lend special interest to the book. They number 210 and they show in picture the world as he saw it. They constitute just the many striking object lessons of the people of all countries in their cities, towns and villages—in their homes and every day occupations.

The book will interest every reader as a unique presentation of a wonderfully interesting journey. It is sold only through solicitors. The Thompson Publishing Company, St. Louis Mo., are the fortunate publishers. They advertise for agents in another column of this issue.

Public School Alumni Meet.

Over 100 graduates of the public schools of the county with their friends held a very enjoyable reunion at Rosensteel's, Round Top on last Friday. The purpose of the meeting was not only for social pleasure and to get the graduates together, but also to consider the propriety of forming an organization.

A very enjoyable programe was the first order of the day as follows:

Duet by Misses Rachael Miller and Alice Wolf, of Abbottstown, graduates of 1907.

Address by Rev. Henry J. Mussel, man pastor of the Lutheran church at Litchfield Ill. He was a graduate of the second class, that of 1892, and advised the formation of a permanent organization. He urged pupils to remain in schools as long as possible and then attend higher schools and commented on the roll of graduates, showing that a great many had sought a higher education.

Solo by Miss M. Myrtle Watkins, of Biglerville, graduate of 1905.

Reading by Miss Ruth M. LeFevre of Littlestown, graduate of 1904.

Song by Cott R. Hoechst of East Berlin, graduate of 1899.

After a free discussion about the advisability and advantages of an organization it was decided to organize under the title, "The Alumni Association of the Public Schools of Adams County."

An election of officers for the first year was immediately held. Cott R. Hoechst was elected Pres.; W. Preston Hill Vice Pres.; Miss Ruth M. LeFevre Sec.; Miss M. Myrtle Watkins Treas. [illegible]

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

RHEUMATISM

Old Mr. Rheumatism hangs on tight and bites and pinches when he takes hold. It's quite a job to shake him off. It's hard to believe that all the pain and trouble he causes comes from such a little thing. Just a tiny bit of acid in the blood the kidneys haven't taken care of. But the kidneys aren't to blame. I used to think they were. Now I know better. It's that over worked and over crowded stomach giving the kidneys part of its work and the kidneys can't do it. I found this out with Cooper's New Discovery. It puts the stomach in shape, that's all it does, and yet I have seen thousands of people get rid of rheumatism by taking it. That is why I am positive that rheumatism is caused by stomach trouble. Here is a sample of letters I get every day on the subject.

LAWRENCE TUSCANY.

"For a long time I have been a victim of sciatica and inflammatory rheumatism, and my suffering has been too great to describe. For weeks I lay helpless with every joint in my body so tender and sore that I could not bear to move. The slightest touch would cause me the greatest agony. Several doctors treated me but they failed entirely. I tried many remedies but nothing seemed to reach my case, so I continued to lay helpless. My kidneys and stomach were affected also. I could eat but little, digest less and gradually my strength left. I lost flesh rapidly."

"I began the use of the famous Cooper medicines of which I heard so much. To my surprise and delight I improved immediately, and after using several bottles I felt like another person. My strength and appetite returned. The pain and soreness left me and now I feel better than I have for months." Lawrence Tuscany, 1122 Aldrich Ave., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Union Veteran Legion to Come.

The 23d annual encampment of the Union Veteran Legion will be held in Gettysburg, commencing Sept. 9th and continuing on the 10th, 11th and 12th. As a large majority of these men participated in the battle here, they have determined to hold their business sessions in the evenings and occupy the daylight for sight seeing. This organization is composed of men who volunteered in the early part of the war for three years and were in the hard battles of that struggle for the preservation of the Union, and it is hoped that our business men and people will show their appreciation of their coming by flying old glory from their flag staffs, doors and windows, and give them the glad hand when opportunity offers. All hail to the men that made our town historic. Camp fire in the Court House Tuesday evening, Sept. 10 at 8 p. m.

15th Pa. Cav. Veterans' Reunion.

Jacob Kitzmiller of town, John W. Wireman of Huntington township, W. Small of Edgegrove, John McGlaughlin of Fairfield and F. X. Noel of Kingsdale, veterans of the 15th Pa. Cav. returned last week from Colorado, where they had been the guests of their old commander, Gen. Wm. J. Palmer. They declared they had the time of their lives.

Over 200 of the survivors of the 15th Pa. Cav. made up the party and traveled west and returned in one of the finest trains of Pullman cars the Pennsylvania R. R. runs. They were entertained at the Antlers Hotel, the largest at Colorado Springs. They were given a royal welcome. Next day there was a parade headed by Gen. Palmer in an auto and the school children gave the veterans a surprise by pelting them with flowers all along the route. An extensive program of sight seeing consumed the time to the home of their commander at Glen Eyrie, all around Colorado Springs to Manitou, Denver, Garden of the Gods, Cave of the Winds, Cliff Dwellers, Cripple Creek and gold mining region and Pike's Peak. They were taken to a flower show, and there were camp fires, banquets, and they traveled by cars, trolleys, wagons and everything was as free as air for Gen. Palmer [illegible] the bills. GUARANTEED REMEDY FOR INDIGESTION.

Interesting Statement by The People's Drug Store.

When a man comes into this store and calls for any particular indigestion remedy, we always give him what he asks for, but in case he leaves it to us we usually recommend Pepsikola tablets.

Here is a preparation we have been selling right over the counter for years, and from actual observation we know it must do good, and really does cure indigestion and dyspepsia or there would be a steady stream of people coming back for their money, as every 25 cent box is sold with the understanding that you must be decidedly benefited or there is nothing to pay.

You simply try Pepsikola tablets with the understanding that they will steady your nerves, improve your appetite, relieve wind belching, coated tongue, sour stomach, fullness after eating, weakened energy, and other symptoms of indigestion or The People's Drug Store is ready at any time to pay back your money without the least argument.

"I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said, 'There is a woman sick unto death in the car.' I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic, her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a deathlike look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suit case and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil, then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into Le Grande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the hus'and to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into Le Grande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car." WHEN HIRAM WAITED FOR HIS WIFE

The trouble was brought about, it seems, through Mr. Hiram Smith's laudable desire to meet the train upon which Mrs. Smith was returning from Pinehurst, N. C.

"I'll have to tell this about Hiram," said Mrs. Samuel Smith. "It may not seem a very cousinly thing to do, but it's too good to keep. You see, Mrs. Hiram Smith had been at Pinehurst for some weeks, and on Monday Hiram got a telegram saying that she was starting home and that her train was due to arrive at Jersey City about 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening. Hiram made plans accordingly, starting away from Freeport early on Tuesday afternoon, arrived with time to spare at the Jersey City station. Walking up and down the concourse he saw hundreds of commuters hurrying for their trains and listened to the stentorian announcements as to the movements of trains emanating from a man with a megaphone.

"There was nothing said about a train from Pinehurst, but Hiram did not think that was strange, he just walked up and down and waited. Six-thirty came, but no sign of the Pinehurst train. This did not seem unusual, these southern expresses are often late, thought Hiram, and tramped up and down the concourse some more. Seven o'clock, 7:30, and still no Pinehurst train. Hiram began to feel the pangs of hunger, also the pangs of worriment at the nonappearance if his wife. Finally he applied at the information window with the idea of finding out something—explaining at the same time that the men at the gates did not seem to have a very clear idea as to the arrival of trains.

"'O, dear,' said the man at the window, turning to a nearby mirror to adjust his cravat, 'these southern trains are very often hours behind time. The one from Pinehurst will probably be very late. Move along, please; there are persons behind you who wish information.'

"Then there was more tramping about in that cheerless concourse, the scanning of strange faces and a tense watch for the Pinehurst special that did not appear. At ten o'clock things began to look deserted and apparently the megaphone man had retired for the night. All was stillness at 10:30 o'clock, and the only sound was the faraway clang of the bell of some yard locomotive. Hiram decided to try the so-called information bureau once more. He moved in a rather gingerly way to the window and peered in. There he saw an old man asleep.

"'Please,' said Hiram, 'will you tell me when the Pinehurst train will arrive?'

"The elderly man awoke with a yawn.

"'Pinehurst,' he said hazily. 'Pinehurst? To-morrow morning — she's late—she'll get in to-morrow morning;' and then returned to repose.

"Disconsolate, Hiram watched the scrubwomen who were now cleaning up the station, for awhile, and then decided that he needed rest. He would go quickly to some hotel on the New York side and snatch a few hours of needed sleep. This was a good plan, and he followed it, leaving a call for four o'clock with the clerk, so that he might be on hand early the next morning for the Pinehurst train.

"Faithful to his word, the clerk routed Hiram out at four o'clock the next morning, and no extra charge. Hiram forthwith snatched a hasty breakfast and hurried again to Jersey City to the great concourse where the trains arived. Things were pretty much deserted at such an early hour, and it was a long time before Hiram could find a person to whom he might broach the subject of Pinehurst trains. At first he thought the train had already arrived, and his conscience smote him because he had gone to the hotel to rest. Such was not the case, however, he found upon inquiry of a yawning and uniformed attendant. The Pinehurst train, said the tired officer, was very late—might not be in for an hour or two.

"Hiram waited. It was eight o'clock—8:30 and still no news of the Pinehurst express. Crowds filled the station and many looked askance at Hiram, wan and pale through the long vigil. Would that train never come?

"The megaphone man appeared again, swaggering, important, as if he had some weighty message to deliver.

"Raising the horn to his lips, the megaphone man roared forth the question:

"'Is Hiram R. Smith in the station?'

"Hiram raised his hand. 'I'm here,' he said, with all the strength he could muster.

"'Mr. Smith, you are wanted on the telephone,' advised the announcer, and Hiram hurried toward the booth. It was the bank at Rockville Center that had been trying to get him—they are on the wire now,' the attendant said. Hiram took the receiver and said 'Hello!' weakly.

"'Hello, Mr. Smith,' came the voice at the other end; 'Mrs. Smith got to Freeport last night, and this morning telephoned the bank asking where you were and when you would be home.'

"Hiram had barely time to gasp out the words 'All right' into the transmitter before he fell back in a state of semicollapse."

The whole trouble was that Mrs Smith had returned by another route and her husband had gone to the wrong terminal.

VAST RICHES OF TURKEY.

Country Has Great Future, According to American.

"Turkey, I believe, is the richest country on the globe for its size," said Ernest A. Magnifico, American vice consul at Smyrna, Turkey.

"There are copper mines, zinc mines, lead mines, and gold and silver mines to be found in abundance in Turkey, but they remain undeveloped because no one can get a concession from the government to work them," continued Mr. Magnifico. "Foreign capital is afraid to enter Turkey, and the industry of the country and the population, I believe, are decreasing yearly. But this cannot last forever. The people, for centuries under the yoke of restraint, are beginning to throw off their burden and are awaking to the possibilities of the future.

"Ten years ago 90 per cent. of the people were ignorant of the utility of public schools, and parents were content to allow their children to grow up without education, as they had done before them. Now schools are springing up everywhere, even in the rural districts, and the people are becoming alive to their true interests. They are taking an interest in politics and governmental affairs, and it is not a far step from education and zeal in politics to active participation in the running of the government.

"Agriculturally Turkey is the most fertile spot in the world. Anything can be grown there. The principal products are wheat and barley, nearly all of which is shipped to England. Smyrna is a city of 400,000 population, and is the largest export city on the Mediterranean, which is saying a great deal when one remembers that Genoa and Naples are on that sea. There are few manufacturing establishments there and no machinery is used. What manufacturing is done is by hand. Smyrna rugs, of course, are famous the world over, and many of the people are engaged in making them."

HELPS TRAVELER ON WAY.

Praise for the Milestone That Gladdens the Tourist.

In a walking trip a milestone along the way is the most companionable fellow in the world; your spirits rise as you near him as though you were about to greet a human friend, and they keep almost consistently on this high level till his brother a mile distant advances to meet you. And when you overlook one of this friendly company because of an encroaching bank or screening boughs, his neighbor further on comes to you doubly welcome. At the latter end of the passage in the journey your spirits flag a trifle, as though oppressed by a sense of desertion. You may even scowl at the overhanging bank which is more than a party to this concealment. Those worthy persons who attend to the roads should see to it that every milestone within their province stands out frankly from its leafy background. Observance of this, however, would rob the wayfarer of that leap of the heart which is his when the stone tells the story of two miles done rather than one. For however much the landscape and the minute world at his feet may claim the footfarer's admiration, he is still keenly alive to the virtue of decent distances covered in his day's journey.—The Travel Magazine.

Her Boston Training.

Last summer Mr. Byram of Monarch, Col., entertained a lot of people, most of them relatives of his, up at the mills. Among them was a young lady from Boston. This summer he expects most of them back again. He again invited the young woman from the Hub, and several days ago he received a letter from her accepting the invitation.

"Dear Mr. Byram," the letter said, "I shall be delighted to journey westward and join the party which is to sojourn at your mills again this summer. I have a queer ambition, Mr. Byram. It is to kill a Robert cat. I am going to bring a fine little 22-calibre revolver, and if you find it possible to let me shoot a Robert cat I shall be deeply indebted to you. Yours, etc."

"She evidently means that she wants to kill a bob-cat," said Mr. Byram, "and her Boston training makes her say 'Robert.' She'll find it pretty hard to kill a Robert cat with a .22 pistol."—Denver Post.

"Work" in Scotland.

A New Yorker who crosses the Atlantic several times a year says that he was in Dundee, Scotland, when he found himself in need of shoes.

On entering the first shop he came to, he was surprised to find that patrons were expected to sit in an ordinary, stiff, high-backed chair, and that there was no rest for the feet, nothing, in fact, in the way of accommodation.

After making his purchase, and as he was about to leave the shop, he said to the clerk:

"In American shoestores there is a rest placed on the floor in front of each customer, and on this rest he places his foot. Just back of this rest is a seat on which sits the clerk as he fits the customer."

The clerk listened respectfully to all this. Then, leaning confidentially toward the American, he said:

"That's all very well in America, sair; but here our employers do not like to see us sitting down when we work."

THE BETTER CHOICE

By C. V. Gregory

"I heard some good news to-day, Nancy," he said, leaning forward expectantly. She raised her eyes questioningly.

"Father's bought a farm in Dakota," he went on, "and he wants me to go out there and run it for him next year." He paused, but she did not reply.

"Well?" he asked at length.

"It will be a very good chance for you."

"And you?"

"I'm getting on very well teaching school."

"But I don't want you to teach school, Nancy," he pleaded. "Think how much nicer it would be to have a little home of our own."

"I don't want a home of my own," she replied, turning her head away.

"Have you forgotten your promise?" he asked, a note of mingled pain and surprise in his voice. "You told me once you loved me." There were tears in her eyes as she looked at him imploringly.

"I know I promised, Jimmie," she said, "but I was young then and scarcely realized what it meant."

"But, Nancy—"

She checked him with an appealing gesture. "I don't love you, Jimmie. I've tried and tried, but I can't. I don't believe I ever did." Mechanically she drew off her ring and held it out toward him. He made no move to take it, but rose abruptly and walked over to the window. For a long time he stood there, gazing at the whirling snowflakes outside, and when he finally turned and came back his face was so changed that the girl in the big armchair hardly recognized him.

He came and stood in front of her chair, steadying himself a moment before he spoke. "Think of these four years, Nancy," he said. "These four happy years, and that one particular evening long ago when we were out on the lake and the moonlight turned the waves to rippling silver. Oh, I was happy then. It all seemed too good to be true. To think that you, the dearest girl in all the world, had promised to be mine and only mine. It seemed like a glorious dream. Yes, it was a dream, and I am just beginning to waken." His voice broke and he buried his face in his hands.

"Don't, Jimmie, please don't," she sobbed. "Don't you see that I can't help it? You'll find some girl out there, Jimmie, a nicer and a truer girl than I am."

"I never want to see another girl," he replied. "Good-by, Nancy, I hope you'll be happy."

In a moment he was gone out into the storm and darkness with an awful loneliness freezing his very soul, and back in the house a fair-haired girl leaned her head on the arm of the old chair and sobbed herself to sleep.

Slowly the weeks passed away. The bleak winter with its sleet and snow had gone, and the beautiful summer flowers were fading one by one to make room for the gorgeous colors of autumn. Nancy had been attending summer school and was coming home again—home to the little white schoolhouse and the dear, exasperating children. Somehow the thought of it did not awaken any of the old enthusiasm. She used to think she loved to teach, but now—well, she was almost afraid she was beginning to hate it. She kept thinking of him and remembering his many little acts of kindness. How good he had been and how manly!

There was a sharp shriek of the whistle and the passengers were nearly thrown from their seats as the air brakes were suddenly thrown on. Then there came a crash, and outside the cries of excited men mingled with the hiss of escaping steam. The passengers hurriedly climbed out and ran forward. A stock train had broken a truck and in stopping to repair it had neglected to put out signals to warn other trains that might be approaching. The caboose was a total wreck and the passenger engine badly damaged. The train crews, with the help of some of the passengers, set to work at once to remove the wreckage. Before they had gone far they came upon a body of a man, crushed and bleeding, but still alive. Carefully they cut away the timbers that held him, and carried him out and laid him on the grass. A well meaning old gentleman attempted to lead Nancy away from the gruesome sight, but too late. She had recognized the blood-stained features, and with a frightened sob she sprang forward.

"Jimmie!" she cried, as all unmindful of the wondering crowd she knelt beside him and threw her arms about his neck. "Jimmie, don't you know me?" Slowly the eyes opened and the lips parted in a wavering smile. Tenderly she bent over and kissed them. "I love you, Jimmie," she whispered. "I'm just beginning to realize how much I do love you. You're not going to die, are you, Jimmie? You'll live for my sake, won't you?"

His bruised face seemed almost transfigured with happiness as he nodded a silent assent. And he did live, though the doctors gave him up more than once. But Nancy's loving care was rewarded at last and he began to improve slowly. [illegible] he was out [illegible] Nancy never went back to teaching school, but if you should ever happen to go out to a certain part of South Dakota [illegible] in one of the [illegible] happiest homes in the whole state.

Where her form we oft could see
Now alas her voice is silent
And no more her smiles we'll see

Dearest mother we must lay thee

But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.

For there we'll take no parting hand.

Her joys they are complete

Letter to Donald P. McPherson.

Gettysburg, Pa.

Dear Sir: We should like to print your opinion of this guarantee in this paper, where all your neighbors will see it:

We'll furnish the paint to paint half the house of any fair man on these terms: He shall paint the other half with whatever other paint he likes; same painter (any fair man) same way (the way of all fair painters, to make a good job). If our half doesn't take less gallons of paint by one-tenth to seven-tenths, we'll give him the paint. If our half doesn't take less labor by one-tenth to seven-tenths, we'll give him the paint. If our half isn't sounder three years hence, we'll give him the paint. If our half isn't sounder six years hence, we'll give him the paint. Any color.

We say one-tenth, because there are two or three paints with about that difference: we say seven—there are dozens of paints with about that difference—we say one to seven, because there's a hundred that waste one-third of the money paid for both paint and labor.

Is there a paint we haven't covered?

Yours truly
F. W. DEVOE & CO.

South Mountain Oil and Development Company

A Corporation Organized to Search for Oil, Gas, Copper and Other Minerals on Large Tract of Land in Hamiltonban and Franklin Twps., Adams Co., Pa.

Holdings of Company Consist of

2400 Acres

Located 3 Miles Above Orrtanna

Oil is the greatest and surest fortune maker the world has ever known. An oil company gets the product from the ground at an expense of about 5 cents per barrel and oil today is worth about $1.75 per barrel.

Robt. Rawlins, an oil expert, after examining the Adams County tract said, "I observed a scum on the surface of the water. It reflected the color of petroleum. A paper spread on the surface of the water where this scum appeared would burn while still wet. The paper must have absorbed oil. A bottle containing a little oil collected from certain springs certainly contained petroleum. I found several of the springs and streams contained gas, this gas I recognized as similar to what I have found in oil fields. Many oil fields of the world have been located by the appearance of oil on the surface of the water. And I believe that there is a subteranean oil strata."

Capital of the Company is 100,000 shares at $5 per share. Only a limited amount of stock is being offered, just enough for development purposes. A quantity of this stock has been sold in Connecticut and other distant points at $3 per share.

Work Has Begun

The first derrick is completed and engine and drills will be shipped here on August 10th.

Many Adams County people have invested their money far from home and sometimes lost it.

Here is a chance to spend money to help discover the natural resources of the country and if the drill opens up fortunes you can have the satisfaction of not only having aided in the development of the home county but also enjoying a share in what is found.
